Dear Senator/ Representative [Fill in the last name],

Thank you for your bipartisan support in passing the “Protecting Girls’ Access to Education in Vulnerable Settings Act” in the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate.

As I am sure you are aware, many displaced children, especially girls, did not have access to primary and secondary education. The gross enrollment rate for primary school globally is 91%; however, among refugees it is only 61%. At the secondary schooling level, the global enrollment rate is 61%, and that figure drops to 23% among refugees. Access to education has always been a core issue of Girl Up, so I am proud to see Congress has passed this legislation. As a member of Girl Up, education is important to me because [Write about why it is important to you].

The “Protecting Girls’ Access to Education in Vulnerable Settings Act” will improve educational opportunities and address key barriers that keep millions of displaced children worldwide from accessing quality education. Because education leads to healthier communities and increased sustainability for individuals and countries, this legislation is a vital investment in U.S. national security and economic growth, reduces global poverty, and demonstrates American values.

We are thrilled the bill passed both the House and the Senate with bipartisan support. We look forward to working together in the future to continue empowering adolescent girls.

Thank you again for your support on this important legislation.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
