Tammy Rogers

About Tammy Rogers: FOUNDER
Tammy Rogers is best known for helping leaders experience the kind of “Aha” moments that result in new ways of thinking, new attitudes and new behaviors. (Some might say she gives them meaty ideas to chew on—so to speak.)

A certified coach, Tammy has been instrumental in nine business start-ups. She’s held Vice President titles in both Human Resources and Operations—and has had the opportunity to lead more than 200 employees in remote offices from Boston to Los Angeles and Minneapolis to Atlanta.

Tammy has written more than 50 internationally distributed training programs. She has worked with best-selling authors like James Autry and Bob Nelson. And she has partnered with hundreds of companies—large and small—to help them improve results through the building of people, processes and procedures.
